

What kind of research and development does your company practice?

- a. Fundamental research
- b. Applied research
- c. New technology development
- d. New product development
- e. Direct technology transfer activity
- f. Other

Fundamental research was least represented (9/47), 19 % of companies that answered this question (more answers possible). Applied research was represented most with 83 %, followed by new product development with 64 %. New technology development and direct technology transfer activity were represented with 49 %, respectively 36 %.